Completed Task:

1.5: Listing a set of constraints/limitations:

We have set up several development constraints, the future development of the application will be bound by these constraints.

1.6: Determining development process models/methods:

We will use phase development as our project development model and only release one version of the application but with solid functionality for the customer. We may release second version if the budget and time are allowed.

Whether you are ahead or behind the schedule: (Add into Yu's Doc.)

Task 1.5 – 1.6 should be good to go in current phase. We know that setting up development constraints will have a direct impact on the results of the app, so we will do more research on development constraints.
